PRE-DELIVERY INSPECTION

KEEPING YOU SAFE ON THE ROAD

What is a pre-delivery inspection (PDI)?

The PDI is a valuable service provide by your dealer. Before a new RV is delivered to a buyer, dealers must inspect the vehicle to ensure that all of its components are operating correctly and safely. These inspections can cover up to 100 items and take several hours of service technician time.

Much like a home inspection, technician often find items that need to be fixed or corrected during a pre-delivery inspection. These items can range from cosmetic flaws to safety issues, so it is critical that all items identified during inspection are handled before the vehicle is turned over to the customer.

In most cases, the dealer can help the buyer make a warranty claim to the manufacture to cover any repair or correction cost. Pre-delivery inspections ensure that customers are happy with and safe in their new RV.

What does a Pre-delivery inspections service cost?

Nearly every recreational vehicle dealer in California charges for a pre-delivery inspection. The PDI is not required by California Law and it is NOT a fee paid to the state. The cost is negotiable. Some dealers may refuse to sell an RV without PDI because it is so important to the safety of the customer and their families.
