Komfort started in 1967 with a modest operation in Riverside, CA. It quickly gained a reputation for building quality travel trailers with distinct interiors and floor plans. When the company outgrew its facility in California, it opened an Oregon plant in the 1970's, not far from the current location in Clackamas, OR. Joining the THOR

"family" in 1995, Komfort began enjoying the benefits of being part of the nation's largest RV manufacturer. In 2001, THOR built Komfort a new, 120,000 sq. ft. modern facility, which now includes laminate bonding capabilities, expansive cabinet making, and full chassis prep departments. These changes allow Komfort to continue a great legacy of quality Travel Trailer and Fifth Wheels.
